

Iluonose Amoni

Affiliations University of New Mexico,
Pediatric Emergency Medicine

Iluonose Amoni also known as Ose Amoni is a board- certified pediatrician currently doing a fellowship in Pediatric Emergency Medicine at University of New Mexico Hospital. She was born in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania and then moved to her home country of Nigeria at about age 4 where she grew up and attended medical school in the University of Ibadan, Nigeria. She returned to the US after medical school and 1yr of internship. She completed her pediatric and chief residency at Harlem Hospital Center, New York formerly affiliated with Columbia University of Physician and Surgeons. She then worked as an attending in the Pediatric ER at Harlem Hospital Center, New York for 12+years before she decided to pursue her current fellowship. She is single and enjoys a close relationship with her family. Her interests are listening to music, reading, playing board games, watching theater and sports.

